DETAILED ACTION

1. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Election/Restrictions

2. Claims 2 and 10-19 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b) as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Election was made without traverse by telephone on September 25, 2007.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

4. Claims 1, 3-9 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 1 appears to be incomplete and is indefinite for several reasons. First, the claim does not describe how the particle is formed; there is no step describing the formation of the resin particle. Secondly, it's unclear what is being maintained in an air-tight state. Third, the phrase "while maintaining an air-tight state" indicates that an air-tight state has started prior to the "maintaining" stage, but the claim fails to describe when the "air tight state" is started. Additionally, the steps in the claim are partially contradictory. Step 1 states heating and/or pressurizing while step 2 requires that both heating and pressure are decreased. If pressure has not increased in step 1 (assuming the "or" alternative), how can pressure be decreased in step 2?

Claim 21 is indefinite because it fails to describe how the particle is formed. Furthermore, it is not understood how releasing pressure of the pressure-resistant container is achieved in step 2 when there has been no pressure applied to the container in step 1. It is also unclear how "quenching" a container is done?

Other claims are deemed indefinite in view of their dependency upon claim 1.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

10. Claims 1, 3-9 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over the Japanese patent JP 2003-268,119 ("JP'119").

Claim 1: JP'119 teaches a method for making fine particles comprising mixing a polymer and a supercritical fluid at a high pressure and reducing the temperature rapidly to generate the resin fine particles. See claim 1. The JP'119 does not explicitly mention an air-tight state for the pressure releasing step; however, it has been known that a hermetically sealed heating device would allow a desired temperature (or pressure) to be reached faster because there is no heat loss in the process. Therefore, one of ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to practice the method of JP'119 under an air-tight state.

Claims 3 and 4: See claim 2.

Claim 5: See paragraph [0009], last sentence and paragraph [0021].

Claims 6-9: The resulting resin particles made by JP'119 are expected to possess the same properties as those of the claimed invention because the process taught in JP'119 is the same process as claimed with the exception of air-tight seal condition. However, such difference in condition only matters to the duration of the process and has no effects on the properties of the resulting resin particles.

Claim 21: See rejection to claim 1 above. The "high pressure vessel" is referred to an autoclave or pressure-resistant container.

Conclusion

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP

§ 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
